

March 2017 Meet Up Conference Call

“LGBTQI: Terms and Concerns”

Hosted by: Rabbi Sarah Meytin

Rabbi Sarah Meytin led a discussion of LGBTQI and what it means for early childhood educators.

Sarah is an ordained rabbi with an MSW. She has significant program development and oversight, community engagement, and nonprofit administration experience. She has 10-plus years of education and teaching experience, including formal classroom education, workshop/ seminars, and educational program facilitation for children and adults of all ages. Sarah has been in early childhood education since 2009, has completed the "90-hour course" in Early Childhood Education, and earned a National Director's Credential from the McCormick Center for Early Childhood Leadership. She is also an alumna of the Jewish Early Childhood Leadership Institute (JECCLI), Cohort 3. Rabbi Meytin is currently the Director of Early Childhood Education at B'nai Shalom of Olney, in Olney, MD. She lives in Silver Spring, MD with her wife, Rachel, and their two children, Coby and Ruthie.

RESOURCE MATERIALS

LGBTQI VOCABULARY