

OUR MANIFESTO

We believe in two things above all else:
WOMEN AND ENERGY.

Historically, those two things haven't gone together, but we believe they can and they will in the new future of energy. We believe that future depends on education, inclusion and community.

We are committed to all three:

We educate through experiences, not events, because movement requires more than moments.

We promote inclusion over diversity, because while changing your numbers is great, changing your culture is better.

And we build community, not networks, because while networks build individual connections, communities promote the greater good.

We believe the future of energy is bright — as long as that future supports, embraces and promotes women.
